

I feel a person is entitled to privacy and freedom from being a target of those looking to get something from them by annoying them while they are in their own home. A person's own phone should not be able to be attacked for use by others. Face the fact: no one wants those calls and the calls should not be forced on anyone.